THE EXECUTION

OF

Antoine Le Blanc,

Will take place on Morristown Green, about noon this day. All persons, except those belonging to the troop, going on horse-back, or in wagons, or carriages of any kind, are notified and requested to leave their horses and carriages at some convenient place out of town, and to go the place of execution on foot. This arrangement becomes necessary, and all well-disposed persons will yield to it, when it is known, that the horses cannot be accommodated in the town, and that horses, wagons &c., would create confusion, if not danger; and would greatly interfere with the spectators on that occasion.

Friday, Sept. 6th 1833.

GEORGE H. LUDLOW, Sheriff.
