Glen Alpin is a country estate constructed for Henry S. Hoyt circa 1840. The Gothic Revival house is one of the best examples of the style in New Jersey. It is a contributing resource in the Tempe Wick Road Historic District.

The 2005 grant has provided for a complete roof replacement and restoration of gutters and downspouts, site work and professional services.

The 2006 and 2007 grants will assist with the replacement of HVAC (heating, ventilation and air conditioning) and associated professional services.

A separate 2007 non-construction grant will provide for professional services for design, construction documents, bidding and construction administration of Phase II construction (for limited interior and exterior restoration) to be funded by a NJ Historic Trust grant.
