The First Presbyterian Church of Hanover is the oldest religious organization in Morris County, established in 1718 in Whippany. During the revolutionary war, its original building was used as a hospital and burying ground for military casualties and victims of a small pox epidemic. The current building was built in 1835.

After completing a Condition Assessment Report, the church met a critical need in replacing the entire slate roof.

2007~2009 grants have assisted with the completion of exterior restoration of all building façades, including wood siding and trim, windows, foundations and exterior painting.
